- 5. Describe the proposed ordinance, including what the proposed ordinance is intended to accomplish, who's involved
 - a. Scope of Work

"Anemotive Tower" is a free standing kinetic powder coated polychrome sculpture located at Speer Blvd. and Wewatta Street. The City of Denver's Public Art Manager Michael Chavez has obtained permission by the Public Art Committee (PAC), and Denver's Commission on Cultural Affairs (DCCA) to accept this artwork into the City's collection. The artwork has been completely refurbished recently by the Museum of Contemporary Art. Benefits include: the addition of a signature work by an important local artist, Robert Mangold. It adds vitality and energy to a highly visible intersection and adds another layer of playfulness to the adjacent playground.
