SUBJECT: Council Bill 23-0650. Naming O’Fallon Park trail, the “Winston K. Walker Trail.”

Denver City Council Members, by approving the trail name, of “Winston K. Walker Trail,” you will be amplifying Nature’s joy-filled nourishment, to the very souls of Denver residents. You will be helping us all, to celebrate the best spirit within each and every one of us! Winston so passionately exemplified - our spirit of an inspiration for collaboration, with Nature and people.

Winston, and my husband Richard met as retired electrical engineers. Each of them were born with a vibrant spirit of citizen scientist fascination with Nature. Together, we collaboratively shared walking conversations, which engaged the inner citizen scientist, in people of all ages.

For example, our walking conversations explored questions like:
“What’s possible, for the biodynamics of Nature’s regional artificial and natural rainwater cycle, on Earth and in space?”

On the last Wednesday of each month, our three collaborative Meetup groups frequently visited the free “60 Minutes in Space” presentations, in the Denver Museum of Nature and Science, after such a walking conversation topic. Throughout Winston’s last nine years of life, our three Meetup groups collaboratively shared many outdoor adventures in Denver’s mountain and city parks.

Richard and I began to think of our personal experiences, with Winston’s inspiration, as our E-STEAM Love experiences.

After Winston died, in 2019, Richard and I dedicated our collaborative YouTube channel named “E-STEAM Love” to Winston, and produced a YouTube video titled “Power of Example | Tribute to Winston K. Walker.”

The acronym “STEAM” in “E-STEAM” represents Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math.

The first “E” represents Economics - Nature’s Economics, which balances Living Energy. Among Living Energy’s many forms, of balancing biodynamics, is our powerful soul-rejuvenating Living Energy forms, of love and inspiration!!

For each and every one of us, the actual original SOURCE, of our spirit of inspiration for collaboration, continues to reverberate through mountain park trails, through Nature’s collaborative trees, soil, rocks, plants, birds, streams, and people. Our very souls respond to the joy of Nature’s inspiration for collaboration!

Your approval for naming the Denver mountain O’Fallon Park trail, the “Winston K. Walker Trail” will help to amplify Nature’s joy-filled nourishment to the souls of Denver residents, by helping us all, to celebrate the best spirit within each and every one of us, which Winston so passionately exemplified - our spirit of an inspiration for collaboration, with Nature and with people.

Thank you.
