Landmark Designation Eligibility

The structure or district must meet the following criteria:

1. More than 30 years old, or is of exceptional importance
2. Meets at least three of ten criteria
3. Maintains its integrity
4. The LPC considers the historic context

Per Landmark Preservation Ordinance (Chapter 30, DRMC)

The Curries (1909-1913)

- Arthur Wellington Currie (Canadian immigrant and carpenter) built in 1909
- Family lived in cottage while Arthur built adjacent brick bungalow and then converted it to rental housing
- Mary Currie died in 1912 and Arthur decided to leave Denver

Arthur Wellington Currie

The Dryers (1913-1992)

- In 1913, Joseph and Josephine Dryer bought bungalow and cottage, living in the bungalow and renting the cottage
- Joseph immigrated from Czechoslovakia as a child and Josephine's parents immigrated from Bohemia
- Both were Catholic, active in the Holy Family Parish
- Moved to Denver in 1906 and established Swanwick, Miles & Dryer Printing Co

The Dryers (1913-1992)

- Dryers rented to a variety of tenants—immigrants, non-Protestants, widows, laborers, young families, seniors
- Continued to be active in Catholic community despite KKK intimidation and local threats of violence including burning crosses at Regis College and St. Dominic's Church in North Denver
- Klan members lived on this block during the same time the Dryers rented their cottage to Nathan Arenburg, a Russian Jewish immigrant and Socialist Party candidate

Socialists File Ticket.
Socialists have filed a county ticket with the election commission which includes the following candidates:
Congressman, First district — Fred Underhill.
State senators — Albert Keifer, George M. Gilbert, Helen L. Dietrich and N. Arenburg.
State representatives — Jennie A. McGehe, E. B. Bartholic, L. A. Zeitlin, Max Goodman, Jacob Schroth, B. Lowry, Mary H. Blakeley, M. Cohen, J. Leson and Peter Schirossky.
District court judges — Arthur Brandt, A. Blotkin, T. C. McLaughlin, and George M. Falconer.
The vacancy committee comprises William Dietrich, M. A. Skinner, Max Millstone, John Goble and Mary L. Geffs.

Landmark Designation Criteria

- A. It has a direct association with a significant historic event or with the historical development of the city, state, or nation;
- B. It has direct and substantial association with a recognized person or group of persons who had influence on society;
- C. It embodies the distinctive visible characteristics of an architectural style or type;
- D. It is a significant example of the work of a recognized architect or master builder;
- E. It contains elements of design, engineering, materials, craftsmanship, or artistic merit which represent a significant innovation or technical achievement;
- F. It represents an established and familiar feature of the neighborhood, community or contemporary city, due to its prominent location or physical characteristics;
- G. It promotes understanding and appreciation of the urban environment by means of distinctive physical characteristics or rarity;
- H. It represents an era of culture or heritage that allows an understanding of how the site was used by past generations;
- I. It is a physical attribute of a neighborhood, community, or the city that is a source of pride or cultural understanding;
- J. It is associated with social movements, institutions, or patterns of growth or change that contributed significantly to the culture of the neighborhood, community, city, state, or nation.

A. Direct association with historic development of the Tennyson corridor and Berkeley neighborhood

- Area annexed to Denver in 1902, cottage built 1909
- Middle- and working-class residential area
- Developed along Tennyson streetcar line
- Little from this period of development survives

C. Embodies distinctive characteristics of an architectural type—alley house

- Unpretentious, small, frame, one-story dwellings set back from the street
- Form of affordable urban housing
- Increased urban density near transportation routes, shops, and business areas

G. Understanding of urban environment as a rare example of an early 20th century alley house

- Alley houses an early form of affordable housing that served diverse groups
- Historically common in neighborhood, but now increasingly rare
- Due to redevelopment of Tennyson St, the cottage is also rare example of a single-family residence with a front lawn

Sanborn 1929

H. Cultural understanding of how the site was used by past generations

- Represents multicultural history of Tennyson corridor—more than 10 percent of neighborhood residents were immigrants when property built
- Represents the Dryers welcoming attitude towards diversity, even during an era in Denver when nativists and the Ku Klux Klan actively opposed the acceptance of people with certain national origins, races, and religious beliefs

Public comments

Historic Berkeley Regis:

“The cottage is a rare remaining example of the alley house type once frequently built in our neighborhood to provide affordable housing for diverse residents. The high quality of the construction and preservation of materials utilized in the cottage and the thoughtfulness of its design make it an outstanding example of the type.”

Historic Denver:

“We are sincerely grateful to the owner of 4450 Tennyson Street for seeking to designate this property, which is extremely well preserved, retains its historic setback from the street, has notable architectural and design features, and is associated with significant history of the area. The scale of this building may be small, but the value it adds to the neighborhood’s built environment is priceless.”
