Justification for Contract Capacity and Quantity of Selected Firms

- A larger pool and increased capacity of consultant teams will better support this volume of work. As Public Works prepares for increased base workload from many customer agencies beginning in 2018, this set of architectural on-call contracts will allow Facilities Capital Projects Management to be prepared to accommodate future City project needs.
- Increased capacity more appropriately matches the contract duration, scope, and project quantity/volume.
- The selected 16 design teams enable work to be shared among 114 individual firms, 26 of which are M/WBE and 44 are SBE.
- The quantity of selected firms enables Public Works to draw from varying levels of expertise as needed for different project types and sizes (library, safety, mental health, etc.).
- Competitively procured on-call contracts develop local firms who understand the City process and are dedicated to acting as partners in the delivery of City projects.
- These on-call contracts will support early action efforts related to programming and site selection services required for preparation of larger projects, including 2017 GO Bond projects that require early investigative and programmatic work. Large, complex projects will still be procured through the Public Solicitation process.
- Schedule
 - On call contracts allow work to be contracted in as little as 4 weeks compared to 5 months for stand-alone contracts, enabling PW FCPM to efficiently address City design/construction project needs including expansion, repair, and renovation to support ongoing Operations and Programs
 - The decreased contracting duration for on call contracts assists the City in better meeting seasonal operation needs/installations
