BIOGRAPHY

I am a Denver-based producer, director, and disability rights consultant with over four decades of lived experience as a quadriplegic. I bring an unflinching perspective to every space I enter-whether it's a film set, a policy meeting, or a public art commission. My work lives at the intersection of storytelling, strategy, and justice.

I've co-produced national campaigns, like a Jansport piece on accessible design, and directed impact-driven content such as **Guided by Humanities**, a documentary on adaptive yoga. I serve as Vice President of Rocky Mountain Human Services and sit on the boards of XR Inclusive and the Denver Public Art Committee, where I advocate for inclusive, tactile, and accessible design.

I've spent years helping cities, nonprofits, and private companies rethink what access looks like-from blueprint to execution. My time on Denver's Human Rights Commission, the Commission for People with Disabilities, and the Commission for African Americans has shaped how I approach systems change-with clarity, cultural fluency, and just enough bite to keep folks honest.

Access isn't an afterthought. It's the foundation. And I'm here to make sure that truth becomes standard-not exception.
