Contract PLANE-202579244 is intended for on-call contractors to provide airside facilities maintenance and repair services as needed. These services cover a wide range of trades, including electrical systems (power, lighting, low-voltage, life safety, and medium voltage), HVAC, plumbing, carpentry, glazing, painting, appliance and car wash repairs, and fire protection services. Work may involve general preventive maintenance, repairs, or specialized projects such as Passenger Loading Bridge (PLB) repairs, Ground Power Units, PC Air units, glycol systems, sprung buildings, and related airside interior and exterior infrastructure.

DEN is establishing On-Call Airside Facilities Maintenance and Repair Services contracts to provide responsive, flexible trade services supporting critical airside infrastructures. These services address preventative maintenance, repairs, and small- to large-scale facility improvements across DEN campus. The contract supports DEN's Vision 100 strategic pillar, "Maintaining What We Have," by improving asset reliability, reducing downtime, and extending the service life of aging mechanical, electrical, plumbing, life-safety, and structural systems.

Work will be issued through individual task orders with defined scopes, schedules, and pricing, utilizing time-and-materials or competitive bidding as appropriate. Contractors will provide licensed and skilled trade services across multiple disciplines, including electrical, HVAC, plumbing, fire protection, and specialty systems. These contracts emphasize rapid response to urgent and emergency needs, strict quality control, coordination with DEN stakeholders, and compliance with all regulatory, safety, and airport operational requirements to ensure uninterrupted airside operations.
