Aurora activist, lawmaker Nadine Caldwell honored May 9 with historic preservation distinction

By THE SENTINEL · May 9, 2015

AURORA | Longtime community activist Nadine Caldwell, former city council member and dedicated supporter of historic preservation in Aurora, will be honored May 9 with the Aurora Historic Preservation Commission's 2015 Elizabeth Johnson Award for Historic Preservation.

Because of inclement weather, a DeLany Farm ceremony has been moved to an event slated for 12:30 p.m. May 9 at the Aurora History Museum, 15051 E. Alameda Parkway, adjacent to city hall.

Caldwell grew up in Denver, and graduated from West High School. She represented Ward 1 on the Aurora City Council from 1989 to 2005.

Nadine Caldwell

Nadine Caldwell

Her passion has long been the redevelopment of Original Aurora, according to historic preservation activists. Caldwell served on the boards of three of the largest redevelopment projects in Colorado, all of which surrounded Ward 1: the Lowry Redevelopment Authority, the Stapleton Development Corporation and the Fitzsimons Redevelopment Authority.

Caldwell, a longtime board member for the Aurora Historical Society board, has dedicated thousands of hours to the preservation of Centennial House and its gardens. She also is founder of the Northwest Aurora Neighborhood Organization (NANO)—Aurora's first neighborhood organization—where she served as president for 13 years and still serves on the board.

She also has served as Aurora Economic Development Corporation board member; Sand Creek Regional Greenway founder and board member; Original Aurora Advisory Board member; Front Range Airport commissioner; Asian/Pacific Community Partnership steering committee member; E-470 Authority board member; Downtown Aurora Visual Arts founder and board member; Lowry Citizen's Advisory Committee member; and Stapleton Development Corporation and Metro Wastewater Board member.

Caldwell has been recognized with the following awards: 2001 Aurora Chamber of Commerce Woman of the Year; Christian Corp. International's Woman of Distinction Award for outstanding leadership; Korean Senior Citizens Association of Colorado's Commendation Award for support (two times); City of Aurora/Waste Management's Circle of Life Award for community service; Adams County Bar Association's Liberty Bell Award for public service; North Aurora Business Association's Volunteer of the Year; 2000 Commercial Real Estate Women's Team of Women of Influence Award for the Redevelopment of Lowry (group award); 1994 E-470's Driving Force Award; Trail Blazer Award for her work with the Sand Creek Regional Greenway; and 2005 naming of a retail/apartment building in the Aurora Cultural Arts District in her honor.

About the Elizabeth Johnson Award for Historic Preservation

The Elizabeth Johnson Award honors community members who individually or with a group contribute to the historic preservation movement in Aurora. The first recipient was Mary Elizabeth Johnson, who worked tirelessly to preserve Centennial House, Aurora's 1890 historic house and one of the first homes built in Fletcher (later renamed Aurora).

Caldwell's accomplishments include

She has served as Aurora Economic Development Corporation board member; Sand Creek Regional Greenway founder and board member; Original Aurora Advisory Board member; Front Range Airport commissioner; Asian/Pacific Community Partnership steering committee member; E-470 Authority board member; Downtown Aurora Visual Arts founder and board member; Lowry Citizen's Advisory Committee member; and Stapleton Development Corporation and Metro Wastewater Board member.

Patrick Teegarden recently returned to Colorado State Government as the Legislative and Policy Director for the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment.

Previously, he worked as a consultant to Civic Results and the Metro Denver Health and Wellness Commission. He has been involved in public policy, politics, and grassroots advocacy efforts in Colorado since 1976, and has worked extensively at the state, local and federal levels of government. He also worked for several years (2006-2009) in major metropolitan areas throughout the U.S. on zoning, land use, and low-income-housing tax credits for affordable housing.

Mr. Teegarden served in the administrations of Colorado Governors Roy Romer and Bill Owens (1995-2001) as the senior policy and legislative director for the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE).

Mr. Teegarden also worked as an attorney at Patton Boggs, LLP, concentrating on environment/natural resources, healthcare, alternative dispute resolution, and regulatory matters. From 1983 through 1990, he worked as Government Relations staff to the Denver Chamber of Commerce, participating in elections and other approvals for Denver International Airport, site selection for Denver Convention Center, Coors Field, and other civic projects.

He also previously worked in Washington, D.C., as staff to the U.S. House of Representatives Committees on the Budget and on Energy and Commerce.

Mr. Teegarden has served on a variety of volunteer boards and commissions in Colorado, including the State Board of Land Commissioners, the health and environment transition committees for Denver Mayor Hickenlooper and Colorado Governor Bill Ritter, and the Sand Creek Greenway, among others.

Specialties: Legislative and Administrative law and policy; Negotiation, Facilitation, and Alternative Dispute Resolution; Civic Engagement and building Community and Public/Private Partnerships around specific issues of concern.

Experience:

State of Colorado, Colorado General Assembly, Senate. Denver, Colorado
Legislative Director, Senate Majority Office. I am responsible for analyzing and monitoring the status of pending legislation and administrative policies and regulations for their impact on the State. I report to the Chief of Staff of the Senate Democrats. With the direction of the Chief of Staff, and in concert with the Press Secretary, the Policy Director, and legislative leadership, I coordinate the media and policy operations from the Senate Democratic Caucus. I oversee and vet the appointments made by the Senate President to state Boards and Commissions, supervise the Policy Director, the Press Secretary, two Legislative Analysts and office interns. In this capacity I am responsible for the work product of these staff members.

The Legislative Director is responsible for working with House of Representatives staff to strategize about introduced bills, policy, votes and other information on legislation passing from that Chamber into the Senate. Likewise, I am responsible for providing information to the House staff on legislation passing from the Senate to that body.

This position also requires the maintenance of strong and positive relationships with the lobby corps as well as with members of the minority party in both the House and the Senate.

(July 2007-Present)

State of Colorado, Colorado General Assembly, House of Representatives. Denver, Colorado
Policy Director, House Majority Office. Serve as chief policy strategist for the majority Democrats in the State House of Representatives. Duties include drafting caucus legislative agenda, working with leadership and the Democratic caucus on all aspects of the legislative session, preparing testimony, speeches, writing talking points, conducting research, meetings, and overseeing staff assigned to office. I also work with lobbyist in partnership with bill sponsors and executive agency directors and staff in various capacities to ensure that our legislation becomes law. Work concurrently with and report to the Chief of Staff to the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

(December 2005-July 2007)

Nurse-Family Partnership. Denver, Colorado

Site Developer. Primary responsibility was to help the national office to build and sustain high-quality NFP sites in every state in the country by providing logistical support, consultation and guidance to state and local health and human service agencies, and other interested parties to implement the NFP program. I responded to inquiries, guided agencies through the application process and provided feedback in the development of agency and community plans for replicating the NFP model. I also participated with other team members on assigned projects including the Cross-Functionality Task Group and the NFP Advisory Board as co-chair.

(January 2005-December 2005)

City & County of Denver. Office of Budget & Management. Denver Colorado
Financial Management Analyst. During my tenure I was responsible for preparing and monitoring budgets of the Denver Department of Human Services, the City Attorney, the Mayor's Office of Employee Assistance, the Mayor's Office of Economic Development & International Trade, Risk Management, Denver International Airport, Community Planning and Development, Housing & Neighborhood Development Services, the Board of Zoning Appeals and the Ethics Board. Specific duties included performing management analysis of agency functions to ensure that fiscal and human resources were applied in an effective and efficient manner. I also evaluated agency priorities, personnel request, performance measures and opportunity costs to recommend budget expansions or reductions. Additionally, this position required analysis of agency revenue, ordinance requests, expenditures and encumbrances against appropriations, the preparation of year-end budget projections and capital equipment expenditures. I represented the Office of Budget & Management in meetings with City Council, department heads, and citizens.

(April 2002-December 2004)

MRW Consulting, Inc. Denver, Colorado

Principal. Firm was established in December 2000 to focus on state government affairs representation and K-12 education finance consulting. Represented the Colorado Children's Campaign and the Bell Policy Center on the legislative implementation of Amendment 23. Co-wrote a grant request to the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation securing $8 million to establish the Colorado Small High Schools Project.

(December 2000-September 2001)

National Conference of State Legislatures. Denver, Colorado.

Senior Policy Specialist-Education Program. Was responsible for initiating and managing projects focused on K-12 education finance, school governance, and school facilities. Contributed substantively on state initiated technical assistance projects, wrote articles and academic papers for various publications. Planned regional and national meetings. Supervised the program's internship program for graduate and undergraduate students.

(September 1994 to September 2000)

National Conference of State Legislatures. Denver, Colorado.

Policy Specialist-Education Program. Was one of two program staff responsible for policy research and technical assistance on school finance issues. Duties included responding to information requests from legislators; legislative staff; academicians and media. Conducted comprehensive education finance studies including analyzing finance formulas and making recommendations to address equity and adequacy concerns. Testified before legislative committees, writing clearly and concisely for a variety of publications including books, reports, journal and magazine articles. Planned, organized and conducted national seminars covering multiple topics and complex educational issues.

Responsibilities also involved the maintenance of relations with private philanthropic organizations and critical constituencies in addition to identifying opportunities for new projects in assigned subject areas. Served as primary school finance analyst from May 1993 to July 1994 until Senior Specialist could be hired.

(September 1992 to September 1994)

National Conference of State Legislatures. Denver, Colorado.

Policy Associate-Education Program. Collected, monitored and analyzed data on legislative actions related to school finance, state and federal programs for at-risk youth and dropout prevention. Research included legal research, drafting original surveys, conducting in-depth interviews and use of library resources. Prepared concise and accurate written responses to legislative requests for information. Provided program support and administrative assistance to legislative committees, task forces, work groups and staff sections. Made presentations to legislative committees in technical assistance workshops. Reported on independently produced research. Provided research and writing support on grant proposals to federal agencies and private foundations to fund projects on school finance, at-risk youth and dropout prevention.

(December 1989 to September 1992)

Governor's Initiative on Teen Pregnancy. Denver, Colorado.

Public Policy Coordinator. Acted as liaison between the state Department of Social Services and Initiative on the High Risk Households research project. Duties included analyzing AFDC data and teen pregnancy rates in Colorado's 63 counties to determine county sites for pregnancy prevention projects. Was responsible for monitoring federally funded teen pregnancy prevention programs and submitted quarterly reports to federal support administration project officers. Participated in the successful application to the Department of Health and Human Services for a $225,000 grant to fund this project. Chaired and staffed the Initiative's Public Policy Committee which supported research on health education in Colorado public schools and published the Teen Pregnancy Research Report 1988. This report prompted the introduction of a health education bill, H.B. 1126 during the 1989 Colorado legislative session. Assisted in grant writing to fund the Initiative's Public Education Campaign, securing $262,000.

(April 1988 to December 1989)

Kirkland and Ellis. Denver, Colorado.

Litigation Project Assistant. Worked on complex Anti-Trust, Bankruptcy litigation, FDIC Collections, Revision of Employee Benefit Plans, Hazardous Waste litigation and other cases, primarily for Fortune 500 Companies. Duties included summarizing depositions, formulating document control procedures, filing subpoenas, updating pleadings volumes, bates-stamping and legal research projects.

(April 1987-April 1988)

Great-West Life Assurance Company. Englewood, Colorado.

Life Insurance Underwriter, Individual Operations Division. Early life, education, and career

"Happy" Haynes was born in Denver, Colorado and graduated from Denver's East High School in 1971. Haynes received a B.A. in political science at Barnard College in 1975 and a M.A. in public affairs at the University of Colorado Denver in 2002. In addition, Haynes is a graduate of Leadership Denver, the Denver Community Leadership Forum, the Rocky Mountain Program and the State and Local Program at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

City of Denver

Haynes's 26-year-long connection to the City of Denver began in 1979, with her work as an aide to former Councilman Bill Roberts. From 1983 to 1990, Haynes was an administrative aide to Denver's first Latino Mayor, Federico Peña.

She won election to Denver City Council in 1990, becoming the first African American woman to serve on that panel.^{[1][2]} Happy Haynes served three terms and was Council President from 1998 to 2000. During her time as a Council member, Haynes fostered city policies that focused on families, children, and educational reform.^[3] From 2003 until 2005, Haynes served as Denver Mayor John Hickenlooper's liaison to the City Council and was involved with the development of Denver International Airport.^[4]

Denver Public Schools

In October 2005, Haynes joined Denver Public Schools as the Assistant to the Superintendent for Community Partnerships and worked alongside then Superintendent Michael Bennet to direct and "oversee the district's initiatives on parent involvement, school partnerships, school culture and climate, mentoring and volunteer programs."^[5] In 2008, Governor Bill Ritter appointed Haynes to the Colorado Commission on Higher Education. Also working closely with the National Association for Urban Debate, Happy Haynes was personally involved in the efforts to increase student participation in debate. In 2009, Haynes recruited six high schools and awarded the students at the first tournament.^[6] Haynes became the Chief Community Engagement Officer for Denver Public Schools in 2009, assigned to "strengthen relationships with community organizations and business partners."^[7]

In 2011, she left the school district and accepted a position with CRL Associates, a political and public administration consultancy.^[8] When she resigned her school district position, she said she would be a candidate for the city school board.^[9]
