WHEREAS, about investing in the community, Sam said, "I would like to see business people try to solve social problems with the same imagination and energy they use to finance a factory or make a deal. Don't call it philanthropy; call it corporate social investment. Make it integral to business"; and

WHEREAS for more than 40 years, Sam's heart for the community made it possible for Gary Community Investments and the Piton Foundation to give more than $250 million to the community; and

WHEREAS his desire to improve the health of all children led them to support a number of efforts, including Children's Hospital in Denver, Children's Medical Center, as well as the creation of the Colorado Children's Healthcare Access Program, which was instrumental in getting children enrolled in Medicaid; and

WHEREAS in addition to his philanthropic work, Sam was the visionary behind the redevelopment of the former Stapleton Airport site, transforming it into a sustainable, urban community where today thousands of residents live, work and play; and
