Article 9. Special Contexts and Districts
Division 9.2 Campus Context

DIVISION 9.2 CAMPUS CONTEXT (CMP)
SECTION 9.2.1 CAMPUS CONTEXT DESCRIPTION

General Character: The Campus Context generally consists of midsize to large medical, institutional, educational, or entertainment sites. The context is established to allow for flexible placement of buildings, and unified treatment of signs, open space, landscaping and other site elements that may be recognized through an urban design plan that expresses stakeholder visions for the campus and its surrounding area. Campus contexts tend to have transitional areas that taper off in intensity towards adjacent residential neighborhood contexts, but can also incorporate and be adjacent to more intense development.

Street, Block, and Access Patterns: While Campus sites are often connected to the City via the traditional street grid, transportation and access patterns within the campus site are widely varied.

Building Placement and Location: Campus buildings are typically placed to accommodate the specific activity, with multiple buildings often oriented in a way appropriate to their use. Buildings may be oriented toward an internal public space or central courtyard. In some cases, buildings are used to line the perimeter of a campus to introduce pedestrian-oriented uses.

Building Height: Buildings are compatible with the scale of the surrounding neighborhood context with greater variation in massing and height in the interior of the site.

Mobility: Priority is often given to pedestrians. Vehicular access can be disconnected from the grid within the campus zone, but pedestrian and vehicular permeability should be encouraged. Shared structured and surface parking often exist internal to the campus to serve multiple buildings and uses, while internal pedestrian ways connect the campus structures. The Campus Context often has high levels of access to the multi-modal transit system.

 - discourage the rezoning of property which does not offer a clear advantage to the neighborhood. Land use within the neighborhood should follow existing zoning. Additionally, it shall be a goal to discourage the rezoning of residential property for the purpose of developing business uses.
 - maintain its present low density residential character.
 - provide a stable neighborhood setting through the maintenance and provision of neighborhood amenities” (p. 12).

– Campus Education/Institutional Context

- Intended for large scale civic, public and institutional uses such as museums, public and religious assembly uses
- Districts established to allow for a flexible placement of buildings, and unified treatment of signs, open space, landscaping and other site elements while providing compatible transitions between the campus and adjacent neighborhoods

– CMP-EI2 Zone District

- Intended to be applied to smaller- to medium-scale campus sites generally adjacent to a lower-intensity residential zone districts, where it is important to require more open space and more limited building height to assure adequate transitions to adjacent, lower-scale residential neighborhoods.
