The proposed ordinance would amend Sec. 18-95 to set the compensation of the elected District Attorney, effective January 2017 through January 2020. Under state statute, the compensation structure of an elected District Attorney must be set for their four-year term prior to the District Attorney taking office for that term. The Denver City Council sits as County Commissioners when determining the compensation of the District Attorney.

The newly elected District Attorney seeks by this ordinance to set the salary at the current level of $219,606 for the first two years with no increase, and increase the salary by two-percent (2%) for each of the last two years.
