Susan Powers is the President of Urban Ventures, LLC, a real estate development company in Denver which focuses its efforts in urban neighborhoods, close to the core of downtown. In each development, there is an emphasis on community building in the context of social, environmental and economic viability. Special interests include historic renovation, development of affordable housing, student housing, modular housing and unusual mixed use projects. Completed projects include downtown Denver projects, Highland Terrace Lofts, Monarch Mills Lofts, Highland Bridge Lofts, Fire Clay Lofts and Campus Village, a 250,000 square foot student housing development adjacent to the Auraria Higher Education Center campus in downtown Denver. This 685 bed project, the first student housing to be built for this campus, opened for student occupancy in August 2006. Planning has begun on the next phase of the student housing development which will be adjacent to a FasTracks Light Rail station.

Urban Ventures is also under contract to purchase a 21 acre convent in northwest Denver adjacent to Regis University which will be redeveloped into a model mixed use, mixed income, environmentally-responsible neighborhood called Aria Denver. The predominant building type for this development will be modular construction. Urban Ventures is also involved with a team led by Mithun Architects to master plan the redevelopment of a 17 acre public housing project in Denver into a mixed income; green TOO development adjacent to downtown Denver; and performs real estate consulting work for other entities.

Prior to forming this company with several partners, Susan was the Executive Director of the Denver Urban Renewal Authority (DURA) for 11 years. During that time she was involved in the structuring, financing and construction of 18 complex commercial and residential real estate developments that contributed to the successful rebirth of downtown Denver. The developments included the relocation of an amusement park into downtown, the development of a 1,200 room headquarters hotel, the construction of a 350,000 sq. ft. retail center and the renovation of many vacant buildings into mixed use retail/residential complexes.

Prior to that, she held a variety of positions in city management, community development and planning in Colorado and Nevada.

She holds a B.A. degree in Anthropology and an M.S. degree in Urban Planning from the University of Arizona in Tucson, Arizona.

In Colorado, she is active with a variety of civic organizations and is the Chair of the Board of Directors of the Urban Land Conservancy, Board member of the Colorado Historical Foundation, and Downtown Denver Inc (DOI), Executive Committee member of ULI-Colorado and serves on The Mayor's Housing Plan Task Force for the City of Denver. She co-chairs the UU-Enterprise Workforce Housing Initiative. She is married and has two sons.

Wendy S. Aiello

Wendy S. Aiello, president of Aiello Public Relations & Marketing, has lived and worked in the Colorado market for more than 20 years. Aiello's career in public relations and marketing has been divided between traditional corporate communications and the hospitality and entertainment industries.

During the last 20 years, Aiello has represented a wide array of professional service providers, real estate projects, construction firms, non-profit organizations, hotels, restaurants, retail concepts and other high-profile projects and causes. Current and past clients include Denver Union Station, development group City Street Investors, Sterling Ranch LLC in Douglas County, the Aurora Economic Development Council, BMC Investments, JE Dunn Construction, The Nichols Partnership, Children's Diabetes Foundation, The Joseph Family Foundation, Oakwood Homes, Kroenke Sports Enterprises, Waste Management, Hyatt Regency Denver at Colorado Convention Center, Weaver Multimedia Group and Anschutz Entertainment Group. Aiello's work emphasizes business positioning, image development, strategic communications, development of media relations programs and community outreach.

Aiello has developed and implemented local and national public relations strategies for all agency clients including media relations, community affairs, special events, direct mail marketing and business-to-business marketing.

Before launching her agency in 1996, Aiello served as National Director of Public Relations for Morton's of Chicago, a national chain of upscale steakhouses with 36 locations across the United States. In this position, Aiello served as company spokesperson, developed relationships with national and local media outlets, created and managed a national marketing plan and budget, created and implemented national promotions and special events, developed and supervised partnerships with nonprofit organizations and coordinated all collateral material development.

Aiello has been involved in many nonprofit and special event projects in the community including Girls Inc., Women's Foundation of Colorado, Volunteers of America Guild, Courthouse Inc., Gold Crown Foundation, CultureHaus, Children's Diabetes Foundation and AWARE. Aiello has served on the Board of Advisors for The Business School at the University of Colorado at Denver and the Denver Metro Chamber of Commerce.

Prior to working with Morton's, Aiello was a Senior Account Executive at Russell, Karsh & Hagan, one of the top public relations agencies in Denver. Aiello worked on accounts such as Bruegger's Bagels, Morton's of Chicago, TOTAL Petroleum, Coopers & Lybrand and Water World.

Aiello has a B.A. in political science with an emphasis on communications from the University of Colorado Boulder.
