Denver Food Rescue's HFDK grant helps fund 20 No Cost Grocery Programs across the Denver area that have been co-created with the communities they serve. This grant gives them the funding needed to source food, offer volunteer stipends, provide supplies, infrastructure, and other support to help these programs distribute food to the community with fewer barriers.

This agreement is being amended for a second and final time for that last year of the agreement. There is another agreement before council from Denver Food Rescue but because the scopes of work are different, and for billing purposes, the agreements are separate.
