Current Occupation:

Founder and President of Reaction Analytics Inc. from 2008 to Present

Reaction Analytics makes the tools that chemists use to find the cure for cancer. The iChemExplorer hardware and software make it easy and efficient to screen out the best solutions for each chemical reaction so that milligrams of starting material can be made into kilograms of life-saving drugs. All the work is done here in Denver, CO, and used by our customers across the US, Japan and Europe. We work with the CU Anschutz and CU Denver programs in pharmaceutical sciences and chemistry.

Previous Work Experience:

- Cardinal Health - Product Manager, San Diego CA
- Welch Allyn - Marketing Manager, Skaneateles, NY
