

Federal Law Enforcement Masking Policy

Councilwoman Flor Alvidrez,
District 7

Councilwoman Shontel M. Lewis,
District 8

The Problem

- Federal law enforcement agents operating in Denver have increasingly worn opaque face coverings that obscure identity while conducting arrests and detentions.
- This practice raises serious concerns about transparency, accountability, and public safety—particularly when individuals are being physically restrained or removed from public spaces.
- Masking is an intimidation tactic , not a safety measure.
 - "ICE goes masked for a single reason – to terrorize Americans into quiescence" - U.S. Judge William J. Young

The Problem

- Masked Law enforcement erodes public trust
 - Cuts against local trends to promote transparency
 - Can lead to a decrease in reported crimes
- Lack of identification makes it difficult for residents to verify authority and increases fear and confusion while allowing for "imposters" to pretend to be enforcement
- Encourages vigilante behavior
- These practices cut against Denver's long-standing commitment to transparency and constitutional policing.

The Solution

Establish clear minimum standards for visible identification during enforcement actions in Denver.

- Prohibit law enforcement from wearing a facial covering while detaining, arresting, or otherwise restraining the physical movement of an individual.
- Prohibit law enforcement from wearing a facial covering to conceal their identity within a city facility.
- Definition of Facial Covering:
 - "An opaque mask, garment or headgear that conceals or obscures the identity of the agent of office such as balaclavas, gator masks, and ski masks"
