Biography

Hello, my name is Taylor Pries. I am a student at CU Denver studying Political Science. I currently work at a law firm in Denver that focuses mainly in the energy industries. My career and field of study are extremely important to me because of my passion for social justice and women's rights. I consider myself a strong progressivist and I love studying about movements that came before me to admire the sacrifice and dedication of those who fought for what they deserve. To me, the most fundamental aspect of social change is connection, in the way that the goals and conflicts of change are never about a singular individual, rather the world and communities within it as a whole. I have so much gratitude in my heart that I am able to have the privilege of being a young woman who gets to have this education and work in the field that I am passionate about, and I feel strongly that my purpose is to use my life and resources in a meaningful way. I believe that though the absence of women's presence in important matters still exists both socially and politically today, this is an opportunity for growth. My experiences are still relatively new and I hope to continue building on them by having the opportunity to learn from others in the community and having a space to dedicate my energy and passion.
