Hi Jeanne,

I saw that council may be reviewing "The Waldman" for landmark status.

The Waldman, on the west side of Cheesman Park, was built by my step-grandfather, David Meyer Waldman. He arrived alone in Denver in 1910, from Romania where he had ridden in the Queen's Guard at 19 years old. When the Queen of Romania visited Denver some years later, a reception was held at the George Cramner house above Cramner Park, and my grandfather was in attendance.

He actually built three family apartment buildings in the Capital Hill Neighborhood: the "Bernard" and the "Raymond" were named for his two sons. Bernard was my stepdad's name. I have an original sketch by Fisher and Fisher of the third one on Pennsylvania which was never built. Some years ago, I helped the Waldman condo association with research on the building and somewhere I have the complete research file.
