The Contractor shall include all requirements of this contract in all subcontracts with programs.
 - 2) Copies of all subcontracts shall be provided to the State within ninety (90) days following the beginning of the fiscal year or within ninety (90) days following the addition or replacement of a new subcontractor. No payment shall be authorized unless the appropriate subcontract has been executed and the services specified in the approved subcontract have actually been provided.
 - 3) All subcontractor responsibilities shall be the responsibility of the Contractor if the State is contracting directly with a community corrections program that provides services and supervision for offenders.
 - 4) The Colorado Community Corrections Risk Factor Analysis published pursuant to C.R.S. 17-27-108(2)(b)(II)(B) is attached to this contract as Exhibit H, and is incorporated by reference.

 - (c) the Contractor has the written consent of the State to continue to disburse funds to the "Level I" program or provider.

- 8) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this contract, the Contractor shall withhold the disbursement of funds to any new program or provider situated at the same physical location as a "Level I" program or provider unless and until:

Non-compliance with Standards may result in reduction of compensation rates as specified in the Allocation Letter, sample form attached, marked as Exhibit "B" and incorporated herein by reference; cessation of offender placements in the program; implementation of a competitive bid process, coordinated with the local community corrections board, to consider alternate program providers; cancellation of the contract; or cancellation of the subcontract.

- N. Additional Services. The Contractor shall ensure that its subcontractors obtain prior written approval from the State before providing any additional billable services or evaluations not provided for by the terms and conditions of this contract. If services are billed by the Contractor that exceeds the maximum total payment as described in Exhibit "B", or any subsequent Reallocation Letter substantially equivalent to Exhibit "C", the State is not liable for reimbursement. Should additional funding become available, the State may, at its own option, choose to reimburse beyond the amount specified in Exhibit "B", by means of a Reallocation Letter substantially equivalent to Exhibit "C".
- O. Reimbursement by Client.
- 1) The Contractor shall ensure that its subcontractors know that they may charge each offender participating in a community corrections program the reasonable costs of the services not covered by State payments, pursuant to the annual legislative appropriation. The charges may be, but are not required to be, collected on an ability-to-pay basis. Each offender shall be issued receipts for fees collected.

The subcontractor shall keep the offender's bed available for a period not to exceed one (1) day during the offender's unauthorized absence if DOC/SJB notifies the subcontractor that it does desire to have the bed kept available. The State shall compensate the Contractor at full rate only on the day the offender escapes.

Upon request by the State, the subcontractor shall show proof of such insurance.
- S. Access to Medical Services. Policy and procedures of the subcontractor shall specifically prohibit any restriction or constraint of offenders' movements or efforts to attend to their legitimate medical or dental needs. If a medical emergency occurs, the Contractor shall ensure that its subcontractors immediately notify the referring agency. The State shall compensate the Contractor at the full rate of the day an offender is placed in a hospital, and at fifty percent (50%) of the regular per diem rate for up to seven (7) days for holding a bed available during the hospitalization of an offender, unless the referral agency notifies the subcontractor otherwise.

 - W. Financial Audit. The Contractor shall ensure that its subcontractors provide to the State an independent financial audit report(s) which covers the agency's fiscal year(s) relevant to the contract period. Such materials shall be provided to the State every three years within six (6) months of the end of the fiscal year, beginning in 2011, unless a different schedule is established in writing by mutual agreement of the parties. These requirements may be waived, all or in part, by the State in accordance with established standards.
 - X. Notification of Ownership Changes (Governmental Entities Exempt).
 - 1) The Contractor shall ensure that its subcontractors notify the State in writing within thirty (30) days after becoming aware that a change in its ownership has occurred, or is certain to occur, that could result in changes in the valuation of its capitalized assets in the accounting records. The Contractor shall also ensure that its subcontractors notify the State in writing within thirty (30) days whenever changes to asset valuations or any other cost changes have occurred, or are certain to occur, as a result of a change in ownership.

The Reallocation Letter shall not be deemed valid until it has been approved by the State Controller or his designee.

B. Payment for Services.

- 1) The State agrees to advance funds on a quarterly basis to the Contractor in accordance with the schedule in Exhibit "B" subject to compliance with the provision of the contract, as may be amended by any subsequent Reallocation Letter substantially equivalent to Exhibit "C".
- 2) During the period of the contract, upon receipt of proper billings from the Contractor as provided in paragraph 1.M. herein, payment shall be offset against advances up to a maximum total payment as specified in Exhibit "B".

 - A. If notice is so given, this contract shall terminate on the expiration of the thirty (30) days, and the liability of the parties hereunder for the further performance of the terms of this contract shall thereupon cease, but the parties shall not be relieved of the duty to perform their obligation up to the date of termination.
 - B. Upon receipt of notice of termination for convenience, the Contractor shall incur no further obligations in connection with the contract. The Contractor will be reimbursed for reasonable costs allocable to the contract performance. The State may deduct any unliquidated advance payments made pursuant to Exhibit "B" from compensation due the Contractor, and in the event the amount advanced exceeds the compensation yet due the Contractor after termination, that amount shall be remitted to the State within thirty (30) days of contract termination.
7. Remedies. In addition to any other remedies provided for in this contract, and without limiting the remedies otherwise available at law or in equity, the State may exercise the following remedial actions if Contractor substantially fails to satisfy or perform the duties and obligations in this contract.  - B. Deny payment for those Services or obligations which have not been performed and/or Goods which have not been provided and which, due to circumstances caused by Contractor, cannot be performed, or if performed would be of no value to the State. Denial of the amount of payment must be reasonably related to the value of work or performance lost to the State; and/or
 - C. Terminate this contract for default.
8. Notice. All notices required to be given by the parties hereunder shall be hand delivered or given by registered or certified mail to the individuals at the addresses set forth below. Scope of Work

Residential Therapeutic Communities

(Adapted from the National Institute on Drug Abuse website, 2012)

What is a Therapeutic Community?

The therapeutic community (TC) for the treatment of drug abuse and addiction has existed for about 50 years. In general, TCs are drug-free residential settings that use a hierarchical model of treatment stages that reflect increased levels of personal and social responsibility. Peer influence, mediated through a variety of group processes, is used to help individuals learn and assimilate social norms and develop more effective social skills.

TCs differ from other treatment approaches principally in their use of the community, comprising treatment staff and those in recovery, as key agents of change. This approach is often referred to as "community as method." TC members interact in structured and unstructured ways to influence attitudes, perceptions, and behaviors associated with drug use. "Mutual self-help" means that all individuals within a TC assume responsibility for not only their own recovery, but that of their peers, as well, and they hold each other responsible for making meaningful life changes within the context of TC living and after they leave the TC, as well.

The social functioning, education/vocational skills, and positive community/family ties of many of these individuals have been eroded by their substance abuse and criminal behaviors. For them, recovery involves rehabilitation—relearning or re-establishing healthy functioning, skills, and values as well as regaining physical and emotional health. Other TC residents have never acquired functional life-styles. For these people, the TC is usually their first exposure to orderly living. Recovery for them involves habilitation—learning for the first time the behavioral skills, attitudes, and values associated with socialized living. Living within a TC environment for a significant period of time gives them the opportunity to practice, develop, and internalize these skills before they return to living in society.

What are the fundamental components of Therapeutic Communities?

Research spanning more than 30 years has identified key concepts, beliefs, clinical and educational practices, and program components common to most TC programs. These elements reflect the two principles that drive TC operations: the community as change agent and the efficacy of self-help.

Typically, TCs are residential facilities separate from other programs and located away from the drug-related environment. As a participant in the community, the resident in treatment is expected to adhere to strict and explicit behavioral norms. These norms are reinforced with specific contingencies (rewards and punishments) directed toward developing self-control and responsibility. The resident will progress through a hierarchy of increasingly important roles, with greater privileges and responsibilities. Other aspects of the TC's "community as method" therapeutic approach focus on changing negative patterns of thinking and behavior through individual and group therapy, group sessions with peers, community-based learning, confrontation, games, and role-playing.

TC members are expected to become role models who actively reflect the values and teachings of the community. Ordered routine activities are intended to counter the characteristically disordered lives of these residents and teach them how to plan, set, and achieve goals and be accountable to themselves and others.

Ultimately, participation in a TC is designed to help people appropriately and constructively identify, express, and manage their feelings. The concepts of "right living" (learning personal and social responsibility and ethics) and "acting as if" (behaving as the person should be rather than has been) are integrated into the TC groups, meetings, and seminars. These activities are intended to heighten awareness of specific attitudes or behaviors and their impact on oneself and the social environment.

TCs are physically and programmatically designed to emphasize the experience of community within the residence. Newcomers are immersed in the community and must fully participate in it. It is expected that, in doing so, their identification with and ties to their previous drug-using life will lessen and they will learn and assimilate new pro-social attitudes, behaviors, and responsibilities.

How is treatment provided in a therapeutic community?

TC treatment in Colorado is divided into four major phases:

Orientation typically occurs during the first 30 days to assimilate the individual into the TC. The new resident learns TC policies and procedures; establishes trust with staff and other residents; initiates an assisted personal assessment of self, circumstances, and needs; begins to understand the nature of addiction; and should begin to commit to the recovery process.

Phase 1 is when the primary treatment happens. This phase often use a structured model of progression through increasing levels of pro-social attitudes, behaviors, and responsibilities. The TC may use interventions to change the individual's attitudes, perceptions, and behaviors related to drug use and to address the social, educational, vocational, familial, and psychological needs of the individual.

Phase 2/Striking Phase is when an individual actively addresses his or her own treatment issues. They begin to bear a "striking resemblance" to someone who is ready to move out of the TC, so it is when they begin to practice the skills needed to live independently. They begin to reintegrate into the community by going to outside support groups and furloughs/social outings with peers and family members. Once they reach striking phase, they can apply for employment and leave the TC for several hours a day to go to a job site.

Transition Phase is intended to facilitate the individual's separation from the TC and successful transition to the larger society. A TC graduate leaves the program drug-free and employed or in school. Post-residential aftercare services may include individual and family counseling and vocational and educational guidance. Self-help groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous are often incorporated into TC treatment, and TC residents are encouraged to participate in such groups after treatment.

What is daily life like in a Therapeutic Community?

The TC day is varied, but regimented. A typical TC day begins at 7 a.m. and ends at 11 p.m. and includes morning and evening house meetings, job assignments, groups, seminars, scheduled personal time, recreation, and individual counseling. As employment is considered an important element of successful participation in society, work is a distinctive component of the TC model.

In the TC, all activities and interpersonal and social interactions are considered important opportunities to facilitate individual change. These methods can be organized by their primary purpose, as follows:

- Clinical groups (e.g., encounter groups and retreats) use a variety of therapeutic approaches to address significant life problems.
- Community meetings (e.g., morning, daily house, and general meetings and seminars) review the goals, procedures, and functioning of the TC.
- Vocational and educational activities occur within group sessions and provide work, communication, and interpersonal skills training.
- Community and clinical management activities (e.g., privileges, disciplinary sanctions, security, and surveillance) maintain the physical and psychological safety of the environment and ensure that resident life is orderly and productive.

How beneficial are Therapeutic Communities in treating drug addiction?

For three decades, NIDA has conducted several large studies to advance scientific knowledge of the outcomes of drug abuse treatment as typically delivered in the United States. These studies collected baseline data from over 65,000 individuals admitted to publicly funded treatment agencies. They included a sample of TC programs and other types of programs (i.e., methadone maintenance, out-patient drug-free, short-term inpatient, and detoxification programs). Data were collected at admission, during treatment, and in a series of follow-ups that focused on outcomes that occurred 12 months and longer after treatment.

These studies found that participation in a TC was associated with several positive outcomes. For example, the Drug Abuse Treatment Outcome Study (DATOS), the most recent long-term study of drug treatment outcomes, showed that those who successfully completed treatment in a TC had lower levels of cocaine, heroin, and alcohol use; criminal behavior; unemployment; and indicators of depression than they had before treatment. Even those who completed a portion of TC treatment showed significant improvement, if they were in treatment for at least 90 days.

Who receives treatment in a Therapeutic Community?

TCs treat people with a range of severe substance abuse problems who meet the ASAM III.5 Level of Care and who have an LSI score of at least 4d. Those treated often also have other severe problems, such as multiple drug addictions, involvement with the criminal justice system, lack of positive social support, and mental health problems (e.g., depression, anxiety, post-traumatic stress disorder, and antisocial and other personality disorders).

Specific Therapeutic Community Services

The current Per Diem rate is meant to cover the basic Community Corrections standards (supervision, monitoring/security, room and board, case management, employment verification, drug testing, etc.) for all Community Corrections providers. In addition to this daily rate, clients are charged a client fee of $17.00 per day per client.

In addition, a differential Enhanced Rate has been established for Therapeutic Community on-site treatment for Community Corrections clients. This rate is meant to cover the Therapeutic Community standards set forth by DBH. This rate does not cover the full cost of all TC services, however. Therefore, it is only considered to be a “partial rate” of reimbursement. State block grant funds (which are also a cost-share), and other specialized funding help to offset some of these services.

Treatment provided includes:

- Clinical/Differential Drug and Alcohol Assessment
- Licensed substance abuse TC treatment (standards set forth by DBH; ASAM Level III.5), including frequent individual and group treatment by appropriately credentialed counselors (5 hours per week)
- Milieu treatment (“community as method” model)
- TC Orientation (7 hours per day x 12-20 days of instruction)
- Peer counseling (evidence based practice)
- Behavioral therapy (positive and negative reinforcement)
- Contingency management (evidence based practice)
- Relapse prevention training

- Trauma informed care (evidence based practice)
- HIV/AIDS, TB, Hepatitis screening and referral to services, as needed

Additional treatment services currently NOT FUNDED by the Enhanced Rate, but sometimes provided by TC's and billed via other mechanisms where available:

- Basic client supplies (toiletries, underwear, socks) if client arrives without them
- Medications and medical copays if client is unable to pay (billed to client copay but not always recuperated)
- GED fees if client has no other way to pay (billed to client copay but not always recuperated)
- Mental Health services/Psychiatric Care/Medications (billed to Medicaid, private insurance, 1352 funds, etc.)
- Medical and dental services (partially covered by Medicaid, insurance, or sliding scale co-pays)
- Employment assistance by an on-site vocational coordinator
- Onsite GED classes
- Transportation assistance and bus passes for employment
- Family counseling
- On-site parenting classes
