EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Colorado New Energy Improvement District (NEID), an independent body corporate and politic of the State of Colorado was established under C.R.S. § 32-20-104(1). The Colorado Commercial Property Assessed Clean Energy (C-PACE) program was established under C.R.S. §§ 32-20-101. C-PACE facilitates financing for clean energy improvements to commercial, industrial, agricultural, non-profit and multifamily (with 5 or more units) properties by utilizing the local property assessment mechanism to provide security for repayment of the financing.

Under C.R.S. § 32-20-105(1), the purpose of NEID is “to help provide the special benefits of new energy improvements to owners of eligible real property who voluntarily join the district by establishing, developing, financing, and administering a new energy improvement program through which the district can provide assistance to such owners in completing new energy improvements”.

C.R.S. § 32-20-105(3) directs NEID to “establish, develop, finance, and administer” the Colorado C-PACE program but stipulates that the C-PACE program may only operate in a given county if the board of county commissioners of the county has adopted a resolution authorizing the NEID to conduct the program within the county. The proposed ordinance approves an agreement that opts Denver into NEID and as a result, allows commercial properties within Denver to participate in the C-PACE program.

Representatives from the Department of Finance and the Office of Economic Development are planning to give a presentation on the details of the CPACE program at Business, Arts, Workforce, and Aeronautical Services Committee on August 31st.
