Approves a contract with Impact Charitable, the fiscal sponsor of the Denver Basic Income Project, a demonstration project providing direct cash payments to 820 individuals and families experiencing homelessness, of which this contract will support 140 women, transgendered and non-gender conforming individuals, and families in shelters.

The program will be evaluated by University of Denver's Center for Housing and Homelessness Research using a randomized control trial. Several measures will be monitored over the course of the program, such as housing outcomes, utilization of shelter and other homeless services, improvements in psychological health and substance use, and other domains of wellbeing for those who opt into the evaluation.

Peer cities with similar programs (including Stockton, CA, Vancouver, Richmond, VA, Los Angeles, and New York) are finding that basic income resulted in many positive outcomes, and research shows this approach supports:

- Increases in full time employment;
- Individuals moving to stable housing sooner;
- Increases in spending on necessities and recurring staples, such as food, transportation, utilities;
- Increased food security; and
- Reductions in spending on alcohol, drugs, and cigarettes.

Scope of work:

The Denver Basic Income Project (DBIP) is a local pilot of basic income through philanthropic support that will be evaluated by the University of Denver. It is a 12-month program providing unconditional cash transfers to unhoused people living in Denver. The aims of the program are to test the feasibility and impact of basic income for unhoused people. The program will be deemed a success if, after the 12-month period, people who are unhoused in Denver and receive cash transfers totaling $12,000 over the period are more securely housed and are experiencing improved outcomes compared to people who are unhoused and received a nominal cash transfer. Basic income promotes autonomous decisionmaking and allows recipients the ability to afford housing and basic necessities. Additionally, individuals must be connected to participating service providers to participate.

Was this contractor selected by competitive process? No If not, why not?
No, because the Denver Basic Income Project is the only basic income program operating for people experiencing homelessness in Denver, this was a sole source selection process.
