Federal Assistance Programs demonstrably improve health, development, and reduce stress and chronic illnesses; however, in Denver many eligible pregnant individuals and families are not enrolled in these programs. This program improves Denver's suboptimal enrollment rates of these nutrition programs and reduces overall food insecurity in households with children by ensuring that eligible families become and stay enrolled in food assistance programs that increase food and economic security. This proposal will enable patients to be enrolled in and receive WIC services (including food benefits, nutrition education and breastfeeding support) during pediatric and OB/GYN appointments at Denver Health outpatient clinic locations and support patients with same day food resources and referrals.
