

Melanie Burrow is the Hotel Manager at Populus Denver, where she brings over a decade of experience in luxury hospitality leadership. A Denver native, Melanie has built a distinguished career managing operations at several high-profile hotels across the United States, consistently elevating guest experiences and team performance. Known for her strategic mindset and commitment to excellence, she excels in creating welcoming, efficient, and memorable environments for travelers from around the world.

With a deep appreciation for her hometown, Melanie is proud to be part of a landmark property that reflects the energy and innovation of Denver. Outside of her professional life, she enjoys hiking Colorado's scenic trails, cultivating her garden, and spending time with her five beloved pets—three dogs and two cats.