The TJCC has been operational for approximately a year-and-a-half. The Crime Prevention and Control Commission (CPCC) has recommended an additional year of funding to comport with the Commission's understanding of initial funding to be two years. For 2018, which was a partial year of operation, the CPCC's analysis shows promise in delivery a positive return on investment. In 2019, the TJCC has worked extensively with partners in the Sheriff Department, the Office of Behavioral Health Strategies, and the Colorado Coalition for the Homeless to refine and improve the program to positively affect both ROI and fidelity to the TJC model.
