The proposed text Amendment will remove 16 obsolete zone districts from the code

Citywide ADUs

- This amendment includes provisions that make it easier for homeowners within Site Development Plans to add ADUs to previously approved plans

Current ADU Zoning Standards

- Greater allowances in URBAN neighborhoods with flexibility where ADUs most easily fit in

- Allowances for URBAN EDGE neighborhoods that recognize the unique balance of Urban and Suburban conditions

- Sensitive location and form standards in SUBURBAN neighborhoods

State ADU Law (HB24-1152)

- Colorado cities must allow ADUs where single-unit homes are allowed
- No 'restrictive' design standards for ADUs
- HOAs can no longer prohibit ADUs
- Only at the time of permit can the city require the primary unit or ADU be owner occupied

Citywide ADUs

- State Law: Only at the time of permit can the city require the primary unit or ADU be owner occupied
- The proposed amendment adjusts Denver's rules for single-unit zone districts to match state law. An owner could keep their ADU even if they no longer live on the property.

Citywide ADUs – DRMC Amendment

- Residential properties with Former Chapter 59 zoning are proposed to allow ADUs
- Bridge amendment specifies the zoning standards to apply

Citywide ADUs – Map Amendment

Proposed by city council sponsors to follow the Charter process.

Rezones the zone districts proposed for deletion.

Proposed Zoning Code Change to Allow ADUs
Cambio propuesto en el código de zonificación para permitir ADU

Denver's Department of Community Planning and Development, in partnership with City Council members, is proposing an update to zoning regulations that would allow accessory dwelling units (ADUs) on all single-unit residential properties in the city. This proposal would change zoning regulations that apply to your property.

A draft of the zoning code proposal will be available for the public to review in the coming days. To learn more about ADUs and additional requirements that may apply to build them, read the draft, submit comments or questions, and find information about public meetings, visit denvergov.org/citywideadus.

El Departamento de Planificación y Desarrollo Comunitario de Denver, en asociación con miembros del Concejo Municipal, está proponiendo una actualización de las regulaciones de zonificación que permitiría unidades de vivienda accesorias (ADU) en todas las propiedades residenciales de una sola unidad en la ciudad. Esta propuesta cambiaría las regulaciones de zonificación que se aplican a su propiedad.

Un borrador de la propuesta del código de zonificación estará disponible para que el público lo revise en los próximos días. Para obtener más información sobre las ADU y los requisitos adicionales que pueden aplicarse para construirlos, leer el borrador, enviar comentarios o preguntas y encontrar información sobre reuniones públicas, visite denvergov.org/citywideadus.

The City and County of Denver does not regulate homeowners associations (HOAs), or consider HOA regulations when reviewing permit applications. If you live in a metro district, homeowners association, or similar, additional rules on ADUs may apply. Check with your district or association about regulations that apply to ADUs.

La Ciudad y Condado de Denver no regulan las asociaciones de propietarios de viviendas (HOA) ni consideran las regulaciones de las HOA al revisar las solicitudes de permisos. Si vive en un distrito metropolitano, una asociación de propietarios o similar, es posible que se apliquen reglas adicionales sobre las ADU. Consulte con su distrito o asociación sobre las regulaciones que se aplican a las ADU.

Planning Board

- Planning Board held a hearing on this item on 9/4/2024.
- The board voted unanimously to recommend approval.

Text Amendment Change After Planning Board

- Added specificity on timing of owner occupancy requirement applicable to single-unit zone districts
 - Planning Board: Only an owner who lives on the property can establish an ADU
 - LUTI: Only an owner who lives on the property can submit a permit application for an ADU
- Included definition of ‘primary residence’ in Denver Zoning Code rather than cross reference to DRMC
 - Ensures that definition does not change without evaluation
