(who, what, why)

The objective of the reentry program is to reduce recidivism in the City and County of Denver by promoting access to services, resources, and supportive relationships for justice-involved individuals prior to release from detention or jail and continuing post-release in the community. The Crime Prevention and Control Commission (CPCC) funds the program. Eligible participants include sentenced persons with a medium- to high-risk to reoffend. This program requires close partnership between the Denver Sheriff Department (DSD) and the community provider with oversight by the CPCC. Second Chance Center (SCC) has provided services as the community partner for the Community Reentry Program since April 2021 after a competitive Request For Proposal (RFP) process. This funding request includes staffing resources, direct services and support for program participants.

The CPCC ordinance requires that the Commissioners approve expenditures from the CPCC Special Revenue Fund (SRF). Because the SRF funding levels are determined annually as part of the overall City budgeting process, the CPCC Commissioners do not know how much approved funding they have to allocate to contracts such as this one until the finalization and approval of the City budget each Fall. The Commissioners must then vote to extend the contract at the identified funding level before the contract can be amended each year. Therefore, the timeline to vote on the funding and contract extension, negotiate and obtain vendor signatures, and complete the contracting process are extremely tight at the end of the calendar year. In 2024, due to the staffing vacancy of the CPCC Program Administrator, the Commission’s meeting to vote on this contract expenditure was delayed until November and the timeline to execute this contract amendment was subsequently delayed past the contract expiration date of 12/31/2024. The Department has worked with the vendor to ensure continuity of these extremely important services and no delay in services provided while the contract process and approval by Council is underway.

SCC is a Colorado-based nonprofit organization determined to be the state’s premier community re-entry program and a model for the nation. SCC provides case management, mentoring, and vital resources to assist formerly incarcerated individuals in reestablishing their lives and becoming successful members of the community. The cycle of criminal behavior is challenging to break and requires a comprehensive approach to addressing various issues, including but not limited to substance abuse, violence, trauma, and socioeconomic factors. SCC's assists formerly incarcerated people transition to lives of success and fulfillment. SCC provides the formerly incarcerated and their network with education, resources, and support to reenter the community and cultivate a rewarding life successfully. SCC works to reduce recidivism rates and protect future generations from the continuing cycle of incarceration. SCC works to transform the futures of formerly incarcerated people and the stigma of how they are viewed in our country by reversing the negative impact of incarceration on communities and encouraging life-changing habits.

SCC utilizes the Transition from Jail to Community (TJC) model, which utilizes best practice methods to reduce recidivism or likelihood of a person returning to jail by improving stabilization upon returning to the community and improving the quality of life for persons involved in the criminal justice system. The TJC model connects participants to services prior to their release from detention or jail, with continued services upon reentry into the community. Services include continued support, skill development, direct case management and resources, and relationships to promote positive community involvement. Cooperation and collaboration among criminal justice system and community partners is critical to providing a continuum of services. The TJC model calls for comprehensive reentry processes including, but not limited to, client assessment, transition and case planning and targeted services in the correctional and community setting based on the assessed individual’s risk and needs. In addition, best practices for reentry services are culturally responsive and address factors or “criminogenic needs” of the individual including cognitive processing, attitudes, beliefs, values and emotional regulation, employment and education including supported employment, developing positive family, peers and natural supports, productive use of time, mental health and substance use treatment and recovery support.

The contracted funds provide for both staff and direct services for program participants. Direct services and support include but are not limited to: emergency housing, work clothing, supplies and materials, training costs, vital records, bus passes, recovery housing and non-residential services, outpatient substance abuse treatment, mentoring, recovery coaching, care management, and trauma informed transitional sober living. Funded staff resources include care managers, an employment coordinator, and administrative management (program and financial management and data collection and reporting).
