The Ellie Caulkins Opera House is a world-renowned venue, located in the heart of the Denver Performing Arts Complex, and home to resident companies including Opera Colorado and the Colorado Ballet. In 2023, Denver Arts & Venues determined that it was appropriate time for replacement of existing seating and titling within the theatre.

This construction contract includes complete demolition and replacement of existing seating, electronic libretto system, and their integration components in the Ellie Caulkins Opera House. Integration components include Orchestra Pit Wagons, titling system, titling display mountings, finishes. All replacement materials must be within acoustic tolerances.

The venue seat count is 2,188 and will be unchanged with improvements. While the majority of the seats are uniform in design, 8 deviations are required. The new titling system will be a surtitling system, whereas the existing is a personal titling system, integrated into all individual seat backs. The existing system will be demolished. The seat wagons are 6 custom-fabricated modular wagons, mounted on a hydraulic lift, to add additional seating when an orchestra is not part of the performance. Each wagon will hold electric and seats.
