WHEREAS, Mayor Robert W. Speer declared Wednesday, January 31, 1906, as Denver Stock Show Day - an official holiday in the City of Denver - so everyone could partake in the first ever Stock Show. It was on this day that banks, department stores, and other businesses in every corner of Denver shut their doors at noon, while street cars hustled from the 15th Street loop every three minutes to the stockyard site, and the Burlington Railroad rushed special trains from the 'Denver Union Depot' for a roundtrip charge of 25 cents; and

WHEREAS, today the primary mission of the National Western Stock Show is to educate urban and suburban citizens about the importance of understanding and preserving Colorado's western heritage in agriculture, providing city kids a hands-on experience with farm animals, and to host one of the world's largest professional rodeo and horse shows; and

WHEREAS, the National Western annually attracts more than 600,000 visitors from all 50 states and 40 foreign countries and contributes approximately $100 million to Denver's economy; and

WHEREAS, activities during the 16-day event include Wild West shows, horse shows, dancing horses, extreme dogs, the super bowl of livestock shows, an art exhibition, and Colorado's largest agricultural trade show; and

WHEREAS, the City and County of Denver this year signed an historic agreement with the Western Stock Show Association and Colorado State University that guarantees the National Western Stock Show will remain in Denver for the next 100 years at the National Western Center; and

WHEREAS, Mayor Michael Hancock, WSSA, CSU, DMNS and History Colorado recently broke ground on the National Western Center, solidifying the NWC mission to become the global destination for agricultural heritage and innovation;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT PROCLAIMED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF DENVER:
