Executive Summary with Rationale and Impact:

Detailed description of the item and why we are doing it. This can be a separate attachment.

The privately owned former Park Hill Golf Course is currently covered by a city-held conservation easement that requires the property to be used, maintained and operated as a regulation-length 18-hole daily fee golf course. Substantial community engagement and visioning efforts have resulted in a plan for alternative future uses on the site. Section 39-193 of the Denver Revised Municipal Code (an initiated ordinance approved by voters in the November 2021 election) requires voter approval for extinguishment of a conservation easement and the construction of commercial or residential building on land protected by a conservation easement. Following the adoption of a new area plan for the site, and consideration of related measures including zoning and a development agreement that provide legally binding framework for parks and open space, affordable housing, community-serving retail and other purposes, this ballot measure allows voters to have the final say in lifting the easement and allowing these other uses or leaving the easement in place and continuing limitation to golf-related uses.
