A bill for an ordinance amending the maximum fines that may be assessed by the Denver Department of Public Health and Environment.

Amends Article XII of Chapter 2 and Article I of Chapter 24 of the Denver Revised Municipal Code to increase the maximum fines that may be assessed by the Denver Department of Public Health and Environment to $5,000 and to allow for administrative citations to be sent via first class mail. The Committee approved filing this item at its meeting on 7-14-21.

Executive Summary with Rationale and Impact:

Detailed description of the item and why we are doing it. This can be a separate attachment.

D.R.M.C. § 24-5 sets a maximum civil penalty of $999 for certain public and environmental health violations. In the other cities studied by DDPHE, the average maximum fine across all categories is approximately $5,500. Increasing the maximum fine amount to $5,000 will allow for more flexible fine schedules across different industry types, encourage greater compliance and avoid court and associated expenses for the department and the city.

Section 2-284 of the DRMC sets forth delivery allowances for administrative citations. The proposed revisions clarify that administrative citations may be delivered via first class mail. The Colorado Department of Public Health & Environment and all local health agencies in Colorado operating under their delegated authority already serve administrative citations via first class mail. This is the standard practice across many government agencies.
